Richard Daschbach

Father Richard Daschbach, S.V.D., moved from his home in Pennsylvania, USA to western Timor in 1966 at the age of 29. He first went to Ambeno enclave in 1975, and moved there definitely in 1983, where he oversees the Topu Honis children's home (in Kutet and Mahata). He has been living in highland villages of western Timor for five decades, and avidly collects stories and writes poetry that convey the sense of rural life in the region. In November 2015, he asked that these two newly printed books be made freely available to any with interest in life in this region.
