

On Thursday, April 21, 1988 I received a phone call from a nurse at West Allis Memorial Hospital, [REDACTED], who requested special assistance in regard to the way in which Father Becker was responding to a dying Lutheran patient's request to see a priest. I called Franklyn at home and reported the phone call expressing my willingness to accept his judgement in the matter. On Monday, April 25, 1988 I received a phone call from Joan Betz, the Senior Vice President at West Allis Memorial (546-6200), indicating that the entire matter had been finally resolved and that nurses and chaplain had probably said inappropriate things to each other during an argument over pastoral responsibility and care. The matter seems to be properly handled.

On Tuesday, February 28, 1989 Tom Darrow called to say that Chuck Keefe is greatly concerned about Franklyn's unavailability at West Allis Memorial Hospital. A copy of the job description was requested (none current, but only a document arranged for Father Mueller in 1982). The matter will be discussed at the next district meeting, and I encouraged them to make sure that Franklyn was invited to be present.

On Friday, March 10, 1989 Tom Darrow reported a request from Franklyn that his monthly help out allowance be increased from $250 to $300. Since there has been no recent review of this financial and pastoral arrangement, Chuck Keefe accepted responsibility to bring the entire matter to the next District meeting on March 17, 1989 and to ask the 13 parishes for some type of consensus in this regard. The entire plan for pro-rated cost sharing needs review and updating which Tom will take care of.

On Friday, September 15, 1989 I met with Don Thoma regarding Franklyn's accreditation through NACC. Don agreed to inquire of both Franklyn and the NACC offices regarding the reason for the discontinuation of efforts for full accreditation.

On Monday, February 19, 1990 the Archbishop received a phone call from Franklyn, claiming that he in turn had received a call from [REDACTED] in Austin, Texas, who allegedly gave the documentation to [REDACTED]. A later conversation with Bill Mackin suggested that [REDACTED] still lives in Rockford, Illinois.

On Monday, February 19, 1990 I spoke with Joe Coerber who expressed his serious unhappiness with the style of work performed by Franklyn at West Allis Memorial noting that one of his parishioners had been very seriously ill for 24 days without any evidence of sacramental administration on the part of the chaplain. I reminded Joe of the recent evaluation on the part of the entire district and encourage Joe to speak with Franklyn himself.

On Thursday, July 26, 1990 I received a phone call from Ralph Gross indicating concern on the part of [REDACTED] regarding the seemingly intensive pastoral care devoted to her son, [REDACTED] at West Allis Hospital. I immediately called Lyn at his home in order to bring this issue to his attention and to receive his explanation which sounds logical. He denied any riding through the neighborhood of the family and stated that he had discussed the entire matter with his supervisor, Joan Betz, at the hospital.
